International Hydrographic Review Reader Survey Questionnaire

The International Hydrographic Review (IHR) seeks your help to preserve and improve its. Your help by filling in and returning this questionnaire is much appreciated!

A little bit of background. The International Hydrographic Review (IHR) began in 1923 and was published by the International Hydrographic Bureau (IHB) from 1923–1999. During that period it was considered a useful reference publication on the latest developments in hydrography, oceanography, marine cartography, geodesy, navigation, photogrammetry, radio aids, new equipment and hydrographic vessels. It also provided an important historical record of the development of the hydrographic profession and Hydrographic Offices. In 1999 the IHO licensed the IHR to Reed Business - Geo in Lemmer, The Netherlands. Reed Business Geo is still the publisher, the editorial content is put together by a small Editorial Board, including a Director of the IHB, that assists in the selection and approval of submitted papers. All papers in the IHR are peer-reviewed except for brief articles that appear in the Notes section. IHR is send out twice a year to all the Hydrographic Offices in more than 70 countries and to other interested readers all over the world.
