

Adam J Kerr is a previous member of the Directing Committee of the IHB. Prior to that he spent thirty years with the Canadian Hydrographic Service. Since retiring from the IHB he has worked as a consultant, doing work for the UKHO, the UK Maritime & Coastguard Agency and various international organisations. He has had a long term interest in Law of the Sea matters, including a degree in Maritime Law and Policy. He has written several papers, including one of the earlier papers on technical problems of Article 76. He is the co-author of a book on maritime boundary delimitation and a contributor to several other publications on the subject. Recently he has worked as a cartographic expert for the International Court of Justice on boundary delimitations.